MINOR MENTION.

Mr. John Ahles expects soon to start for a summer trip through the old country, and promises to send back some interesting letters about his observations there.

Yesterday afternoon there was a shoot between C. Myntzer and Harry Hordin, glass balls being used. Hordin won, getting twenty-four out of twenty-five, while Myntzer got only seventeen.

In the district court yesterday the time was taken up in the hearing of the case of Royer vs the Wabash railroad company, it being a suit for damages on account of property destroyed by fire, caused by a spark from a passing engine.

"Sport" Miller is having a good deal of trouble with his boys, and wants now to have them sent to the reform school, as he says he can do nothing with them, and that they not only refuse to mind him, but they pitch on him and beat him.

The ladies of the Harmony mission gave an entertainment last evening for the purpose of raising funds to buy a new organ for the chapel. The entertainment was a pleasant one, there being a very enjoyable musical programme in addition to other attractions, and refreshments.

The grand jury yesterday returned many indictments. Among them were bills against Scott, for playing a confidence game; Lyons, for attempting to hold up a man on Main street; Mary French, the woman who was arrested for going through a house where she had begged lodging.

Mr. A. T. Flickinger, who spares enough time from his law practice to keep track of the weather more closely than any other man in the city, reports the rainfall for May to have been 4.55 inches, which he says is below the usual rainfall for May in this part of the country.

William Sas, of Woodbine, in hurrying to the Wabash train, dropped his pocketbook, containing money and papers valued at $1,400, but Officer O'Brien made a successful hunt for it, and the owner soon had the satisfaction of recovering his own without the loss of a penny.

A chicken-coop located within a few feet of the police headquarters was robbed Thursday night. The poultry was the property of Mr. Leutzinger. It isn't intimated that the police had anything to do with the robbery, not so much as they ought to have had. With thieves so near the lock-up they ought to have had enough to do with it as to have caught the rascals.

The Iowa grand lodge of druids has just closed its annual meeting at Davenport. Council Bluffs got its full share of honors, Mayor Vaughan being chosen as the past noble grand arch, and J. D. Nicholson as grand guardian. Council Bluffs was chosen as the next place of meeting, although Cedar Rapids, Fort Madison, and Burlington worked their best to get the honor.

Services at the congregational church to-morrow. On account of the freeing of the main audience room which is now in progress, services will be held in the basement. There will be plenty of room and comfortable seats. Subject of morning sermon, "The Children." In the evening a praise meeting will be held beginning at 7:30. Subject, "The Value of Christianity."

The Des Moines papers in giving an account of a French and German recital in Callahan college, pay high compliments to two of Council Bluffs young ladies, Miss Nellie Hatcher and Miss G. A. Osborne, who are attending the college, and who took prominent parts in the entertainment. Miss Hatcher sang a French song, and one in German, while Miss Osborne won honors by the part she took in a German play.

The drunken woman who caused the police so much trouble on Thursday, was brought into court yesterday morning in her right mind. She gave her name as Mrs. Golmeier, and said that she had been living in Omaha, but had come over here to see if she could not get some work. She claimed to be a widow with four children whom she had been obliged to put out into other families not being able to support them herself, and her father being too close to give her any help. She was fined the usual amount and not being able to pay, was put at hard work--killing bedbugs in the city jail.

A case of drunken brutality is reported but no arrest has been made. It seems that the husband and father, in name, although he does not appear to have acted like either, went home drunk and was beating the children for some trivial offense, and when the mother interfered he threw a butcher knife at her, missing her, but unfortunately hitting one of the children, inflicting quite a serious wound. The woman is said to have then thrown the knife at the man, inflicting a scalp wound, and that was followed up by her hitting him with a stick of wood, knocking him so silly that he could not keep up the contest any longer. The affair, as reported, is a most disgraceful one, and merits the attention of the authorities.

Col. Sapp's name has been mentioned quite frequently throughout the state in connection with the probable nomination for governor by the republicans, and the state papers are now passing around an item to the effect that he recently expressed himself at Dubuque as thinking that prohibition is fast dying out in Iowa and that the next republican convention would not endorse the former platform in its favor, but would either ignore the question or be in favor of high license. This expression of opinion is given special attention, on the ground that Colonel Sapp may be nominated for governor by the republicans. The Bee is reliably informed that Colonel Sapp has no idea of accepting the nomination, if tendered him, and much less idea of trying to get it. In fact he does not want the honor, and would not accept if tendered. He is out of the field and the race in every respect.

The express men are still very much agitated over the present license law, they claiming that under it they have paid their money the past year, but have not had any protection. They say that especially in the winter, strangers come in here with teams, and haul coal, and do general teaming without paying any license or taxes, claiming exemption on the ground that they are hauling by the day and not by the load. The express men also claim that unlicensed parties take advantage of the races, and other like occasions, and that when regular licensees complain, they are told to hunt up their witnesses, make a regular charge, and hire an attorney to prosecute the offenders. Those having licenses claim that having paid their money into the treasury, they are entitled to protection, and that it is the duty of the city officials to do the prosecuting. The aldermen would have the expressmen have an ordinance drawn up to suit them, and then they will pass it if it is at all reasonable.

Judge S. W. Mason, of New York, the father of the young man who has been given so much notoriety here of late by the suspicions directed against him in connection with the loss of some money from McIntyre's store, has arrived in the city for the purpose of having the charges and insinuations against his son's character cleared up, and to investigate with the view of making those smart who have scattered any malicious stories, if such there are. The judge occupies a prominent position in the east, and he evidently does not propose to have the family es- tutechene spotted without cause. Just what action he will take in the matter is not known, and he probably cannot decide himself until he examines the facts more fully, but it is reported that he is thinking strongly of commencing some action against McIntyre as being responsible for the unpleasant position in which his son was placed before the public.

The grand jury had found an indictment against W. S. Smith, the colored head porter of the Oden house, the charge being seduction. The woman who thus complains of him is named Green, and is white, but she claims that Smith co-erced her out of her virtue by promising to marry her. She claims that he is the father of the little babe which she carries in her arms. He has given bonds to appear and answer for trial when the time is set. Smith is having a good deal of trouble lately, his creditors pinching him snugly, and now this other matter follows. He has been one of the most dresy men in the city, and has apparently been having unusual prosperity, he having a large number of hacks, wagons, teams, etc., and has been looked on as having a very shining life, but the clouds are gathering very thick lately.

There need be no such great agitation about the proposed new license ordinance, taxing every sort of business. It seems to be conceded by even the aldermen themselves that there are few, if any, of these proposed licenses, which can be legally collected, and the only question is whether the citizens will voluntarily pay the amounts named, or whether they desire to have the police, gas, and other requirements of the city done away with. When it comes to a voluntary contribution on the part of the citizens to keep the city going, there will be very little money paid into the treasury. Everybody is eager and willing for everybody else to pay the proposed license, but each one wants to have himself let out.

The council, composed of twenty or more of the prominent churches of Western Iowa and Nebraska, will meet in the baptist church at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. The afternoon and evening services will be especially interesting. The Rev. Mr. Watson, of Sioux City, will preach in the afternoon at 2:30 p. m., and Dr. Hulbert in the evening. In addition to the sermons various other parts will be taken by different ministers in attendance. All are cordially invited.

The two-year-old child of H. Hutchinson yesterday strayed from Washington avenue over to the residence of J. W. Squire, on Story street, and was found several hours after, much to the relief of the child's parents, who secured the city for the child.

It looked a little odd yesterday to see the street parade of Higgins, coming into a prohibitory state to drum up business for his line. It drew the attention of the people, however, and as an advertising scheme was a success.

The Rev. E. B. Hulbert, D. D., and John Betcheit, a prominent business man of Chicago, will be the guests of the Rev. D. H. Cooley, from Saturday morning till after the council of recognition on Tuesday.

It is said that many refused to have their names reported to the census taker for fear that they would be called on to pay poll tax. If any such fellows can be found they should be made to pay a double tax.

NEOLA NEWS.

A Stabbing Affray Between Juvenile Adversaries.

Other News Gleanings for the Bee.

NEOLA, Ia., June 11.—Several substantial improvements have been added to our town since our last.

The two-story brick building of Harvey & Beard, to be used as a drug store and postoffice, is now ready for occupancy. The carpenters are just putting the finishing strokes on the counter and shelving. Very few small towns boast of a building like this, with a French plate glass front.

J. W. Butler and E. Vickery have each erected for themselves a neat residence, as have others too numerous to mention.

Mr. C. D. Dillin seems to be the happiest man in town now. He rides behind a crack team in a bran new buggy. The school year has just closed and the vacation will last for three months. The old teachers are retained for the next year.

J. G. Bardley has left his old haunt on Third street and is now ensconced in his own new store building on Front street, where henceforth he will juggle the sugar-scoop and yard-stick.

John Ocamas and J. E. Follett have bought out the livery business of George S. Ston. The red barn ought now to prosper, as they are both genial, good fellows.

A stabbing affray occurred here yesterday between two boys about 12 or 13 years old. It seems that the boy who got hurt, whose name is Cash, is learning to become a clerk in the store of William McDonald, and about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the boy who did the stabbing, whose name is Fulliger, came into the store, and shortly some difference arose between them, and the clerk sought to eject the invader, and while the melee was going a shame to say it quite a crowd of men gathered around them to see "the fun." When young Fulliger drew his knife and stabbed his adversary in the right arm near the shoulder joint, Dr. Harvey dressed the wound shortly after it occurred. He says it is only a very slight, but might have been productive of very bad results. It is held profusely. Nothing further has developed in the matter as yet.

Our new steam feed mill, run by our townsmen, Cooper & Hall, report the business in a flourishing condition. More, Ver.
